LOCATION OVERVIEW

Sedro-Woolley is a small city in Skagit County, Washington, known as the "Gateway to the North Cascades".

It's situated on the Skagit River, near the Cascade Mountains.

Founded in 1898, Sedro-Woolley has grown up in the timber industry and moved from timber to technology and is now home to major employers like Janicki Industries, a leading aerospace manufacturing company, the developing Sedro-Woolley Innovation for Tomorrow (SWIFT) Center, Job Corps' first technical academy in the nation, a public hospital, Sedro Woolley School District, vibrant downtown and room to grow.

Sedro-Woolley is perfectly positioned on the Skagit River, between Seattle and Vancouver, Canada, and along with being the gateway to the scenic North Cascades National Park and the Salish Sea.

Sedro-Woolley is a city with excellent access to major thoroughfares including Interstate 5, State Route 20 and State Route 9, yet retains a rural character.
