HOQUIAM & ABERDEEN

Located in Grays Harbor County along the southwestern coast of Washington State, Hoquiam offers a relaxed, small-town lifestyle with rich history, natural beauty and a strong sense of community. The neighboring town of Aberdeen serves as a regional hub for commerce, industry, and culture on the Olympic Peninsula. Known as the “Gateway to the Olympic Peninsula,” Hoquiam and Aberdeen are strategically positioned at the confluence of the Wishkah and Chehalis Rivers, offering both scenic natural beauty and logistical accessibility via U.S. Route 101 and State Route 12.

Life in Hoquiam is shaped by its coastal location and timber-town heritage; the city grew up around logging and pulping industries, and that legacy still threads through local identity and community events. Residents value the outdoors, with easy access to beaches, forests, and rivers, making recreation like fishing, hiking, and beach walks common weekend pastimes.

Historically a center for the timber and maritime industries, Aberdeen has undergone a gradual economic diversification in recent years. Today, it supports a growing base of small businesses, healthcare providers, educational institutions, and tourism-related services, anchored by nearby attractions such as the Olympic National Forest and Pacific Ocean beaches.

Key employment sectors include healthcare, education, retail, and government services, with Grays Harbor Community Hospital and the Aberdeen School District among the top employers. The Port of Grays Harbor also plays a critical role in trade and logistics, supporting economic stability.

With ongoing revitalization efforts, including investment in downtown redevelopment and infrastructure, Aberdeen is attracting increased interest from both residents and investors seeking affordable real estate opportunities in a scenic, community-oriented setting.
